MUSEUM TO HOLD INDIAN PAINTINGS

Man Who Removed Them
Had Permission.

SCIENCE HIS INCENTIVE

HE DECLARES ELEMENTS WERE DESTROYING THEM.

Picture of the Squirrel, as Cut Out, Weighs 100 Pounds and That of the Owl 30 Pounds.

Geo. Dickson of Alton, who was named as the person who had the Indian paintings cut from the side of Hull's bluff on the Mississippi river, returned to Alton from Chicago, last night.

Mr. Dixon heard in Chicago that he was being accused of disfiguring the paintings in an effort to remove two of them, and he immediately came back to Alton.

When interviewed last night, Mr. Dixon said:

"The two paintings removed from Hull's bluff were taken by me. I had a quarryman cut from the side of Hull's bluff on the Mississippi river, returned to Alton from Chicago, last night. I thought that I was preserving for evermore specimens of a race of people of several hundred years ago. The specimens were decayed and they were also exposed to the hammer of the quarryman, and the scratch of the boy's pocket knife, and too, they were disappearing through the action of the weather."

"It was my intention to forever shield them from atmospheric conditions."

Had Permission

To Remove Them.

"I had permission to take the pictures from the face of the bluff. I obtained this permission from the owner of the property."

"But had I known that there would be objections on the part of those interested citizens who enjoy viewing the paintings in their original state, I would not have ordered the mason to use his chisel and hammer on them."

"The paintings I intend shall go into some public museum of note, where they will be preserved."

"I see and appreciate the spirit in which this deed, which seems to be looked upon as an offense, was carried out as a favor to science."

The piece of stone which was cut out, bearing the squirrel, was cut in a cone shape, and weighed about 100 pounds.

The smaller photograph, that of an owl, weighs as it has been cut out, about 30 pounds.

The two specimens are at the office of Mr. Dickson, where they will remain for the present.

The lines of the figures on the rocks are very light, the rains and winds of three centuries having worn them to this condition.

"PREPARE FOR SHOWERS"

Dr. Hyatt Predicts Gusts of Rain for Friday Afternoon and Night.

"Look out for showers Friday afternoon and Friday night," says Dr. Hyatt. "There is likely to be a repetition of the gusty and blustery shower of Thursday."

The sky will be partly cloudy Friday and Saturday, and the temperature remain stationary. At 10 o'clock Friday it was 77 degrees.

Heavy rains have been falling in the Southwest and particularly in Texas.

A low barometric pressure is hanging over the Southwest and a high over the Atlantic and Pacific coast regions.

The river is rising slightly, but there is not likely to be any further rise unless it rains heavily up country, and that is not looked for.

"Altogether," says Dr. Hyatt, "the weather will be comparatively comfortable, and extremely hot weather is not in sight. But prepare for showers."

ARE THEY ST. LOUIS BOYS?

Isidore Schwiner and Louis Madole
Found in New York, Say

They Live Here.

A special dispatch to the Post-Dispatch from New York says that Isidore Schwiner, 25 years old, and Louis Madole, 19 years old, both of whom say they live at 1015 Eleventh street, St. Louis, were picked up at the New York Central depot at King's bridge by a policeman.

They said they had been brought to this city by an unknown man and left at King's bridge. Madole said he had been with the lady in the Children's Society rooms until their story could be investigated.

No families of the names mentioned reside at 1015 North Eleventh street. There is no such number on South Eleventh street.

SHE WOLDN'T TAKE A DARE BUT SHE DID TAKE A HUSBAND

Mrs. Chas. Winfrey

Suggestion of a Friend Prompted a Trolley Ride to Clayton and a Marriage Ceremony.

Miss Mabel Margaret Harris of 3011 Eads avenue, who has won local renown as an expert swimmer and high-diver, was married at Clayton Wednesday afternoon to Charles Winfrey of Dallas, Tex.

Until the young couple voluntarily acknowledged the fact to the bride's parents, the wedding was as much a secret as it would be if it had been kept.

The action was the indirect result of a suggestion in the nature of a dare, let fall by William R. Neal, a Planter's Hotel clerk, who called upon Miss Harris Tuesday evening, accompanied by Miss Henrietta Lay. Just before his departure, Mr. Neal announced that whenever Miss Harris and Mr. Winfrey were ready to "make the trip to Clayton," he should be pleased to act as master of ceremonies.

Miss Harris decided that she was awfully opposed to a large public ceremony with its attendant pomp, reception, congratulations, etc., and so they concluded to "make the trip to Clayton."

Some time ago, Mr. Neal, who is said to have no equal among women in St. Louis and but few in the country, last year won the medal in a contest at Muegge's fashionable academy, and became famous as a diver of exceptional daring and skill.

CLERGYMEN MAY STOP WEDDINGS?

Groom Will State Salary Before Ceremony Proceeds.

NO MARRIAGE ON $6;
MISERY ON $9.

A PRIEST'S REFUSAL AND A ST.
LOUIS SEPARATION RAISES QUESTION.

Mrs. Ground Seeks Death Because Husband's Salary Did Not Justify Marriage.

Only eight months ago, young Joy Grimes of 1817 South Third street and Luther Grounds of 1038A Marion street, a clerk in a Washington avenue wholesale house, agreed that they could marry and live happily on his salary of $9 a week.

So they eloped and were married at St. Genevieve.

Mrs. Grounds attempted to kill herself with carbolic acid Thursday night, because her husband had decided that they could not live on $9 a week.

The Gulf between hope and despair in this young couple's love dream was simply the matter of the telescope. The $9 a week salary has remained the same.

Wooling, the lovers saw the figures from the eye piece and the money was magnified.

Married, they were compelled to view the sum from the large end of the glass, and it shrank pitifully.

There were so many bills to meet, so many necessities to secure that the eyes of love had failed to see.

A month ago Luther Ground announced that he could not support himself and wife on $9 a week. He went to Chicago to secure a letter for her.

His young wife brooded over the situation till Thursday evening. Then she swallowed the poison.

The mother gave the alarm, and it required the efforts of two patrolmen to hold the desperate girl while by physicians applied remedies which saved her life.

Thus marriage on $9 a week failed in St. Louis.

Father McCarren, the Brooklyn priest who refused to celebrate a marriage when he ascertained that the groom was earning only $9 a week, did not reside at this marriage, which ended in disaster.

Neighbors of Ground's wonder if clergymen should permit their sons and daughters to wed when they are aware that their means are meager.

KING STEADILY IMPROVES.

England's Ruler Enjoys the Sunshine

LONDON, July 25.—This was the first brilliant day since King Edward's arrival at Cowes, Isle of Wight, and the ruler enjoyed the sunshine on deck. At 12:30 p. m. the royal yacht left her moorings and headed westward.

"All reports agree that the King is steadily improving."

NEW YORK, July 25.—Joseph Wright, captain of the crew of the Argonaut boat club of Toronto, Canada, which has just returned from England, where it met defeat in the eight-oared championship race, says his team lost because of having to row on the poor side of the river.

"We can beat them," said he. "I know we can, and we are going to try again."

TRUMPETS DROWN THUNDER'S ROAR

Instruments Were Winded
by Three Elephants.

NOT ARTIFICIAL BRASS ONES

STORM FRIGHTENED LOCKHART'S PERFORMING BEASTS.

Nat Willis, Comedian, Cut Short His Clever Turn—Was It Fright or Just Lack of Lung Power?

Elephants' trumpeting drowned the crashing and rumbling of thunder at Forest Park Highlands during the storm yesterday afternoon, at least so declares Nat Willis, comedian, and Mr. Willis is a truthful young man.

Certain it is, as the large audience will testify that the racket created by Lockhart's usually docile beasts, engulfed Mr. Willis, vocal efforts completely and drove him from the stage.

Some of Mr. Willis' envious competitors do say that it was fright that drove him from the stage, but that is another story and his friends refute it, any how.

Willis is a man of ready wit, capable of turning almost any circumstance into an aid to his act. Since he and the elephants have formed partners of the same vaudeville men he has used them to help out his monologues.

"MAMA'S CALLING ME."

Willis appears on the program just before the three performing elephants. About 3:45 each afternoon the beasts are brought by Trainer John Green from their stables in east end of the Highlands reservation to the rear of the stage.

As Willis nears the end of his act by an arrangement with Mr. Lockhart, one of the elephants trumpets wildly and Willis says, as he leaves the footlights:

"By-by, mama's calling me."

That wasn't what happened Thursday afternoon.

As the elephants were led out of their stable, the skies darkened, and a heavy rain was midway to the stage, a terrific peal of thunder reverberated through the grounds. The elephants were frightened, and lost no time in showing it.

Willis was surprised. But he smiled, and waving his right hand in the direction of the elephants, shouted:

"That's all right, papa, I'll be there in a minute."

The audience was breaking into smiles over this comment, when another elephant's noise flooded the roofed enclosure. It was twice as loud as the previous trumpeting, and lasted longer. It seemed to almost like an explosion, but it was more sustained.

"COULDN'T NOTICE IT."

Willis had been singing his clever topical song, "You Couldn't Hardly Notice It at All," and when this second avalanche of sound swept over his audience, he threw up his hands and the water splashed, remarking that the audience couldn't hardly notice his singing at all, in view of the sensational opposition.

A few minutes later the elephants had the youth Fiedler sprang into the ring, and were led on the stage by Mr. Lockhart and his assistants. They went through their act without any further lung-testing stunts, leaving Jove to his fate.

"They were scared by the thunder," said Mr. Lockhart to the Post-Dispatch Friday. "They don't like thunder at all. If they are in a place that they know is safe, it doesn't make so much difference."

When the elephants were not there, they were out in the open air. But it wasn't any trouble to calm them. I just talked to them, told them there was nothing to be frightened about and gave them some sugar and they were all right. They went through their act as well as they ever did. I am sorry that the elephants interfered with him to be heard while the elephants were making so much noise."

INSPECTED FAULKNER JURORS

One Marked Man Was in Venire, but He Was Rejected—Mrs. Crawford Would Denounce One of Them to the Court If He Should Be Drawn.

Mrs. E. C. Crawford, who resides at 2802A Franklin avenue, has come strangely into the Faulkner perjury trial.

It is her self-imposed task to prevent, in the interest of justice, the impaneling of four citizens of St. Louis on any jury that will sit in any of the boodle trials.

Last January while the grand jury was in session and the newspapers were daily publishing reports of its proceedings, but before it had indicted anyone, Mrs. Crawford and three companions were on their way to the theater on a street car one evening.

They occupied two seats facing one another. Across the aisle sat four men from their appearance business or professional men of some importance. They were talking animatedly about the work that was being done by the grand jury.

Mrs. Crawford's attention was finally attracted to the conversation on hearing one of the men say:

"When those cases come to trial I want to be on the jury. No matter what the evidence I believe they are all corrupt, and I'd send them to the pen."

"REMEMBER THE FACES."

Mrs. Crawford nudged one of her companions and said: "Pay attention to what those men say and look at them well and remember their faces."

Another of the men across the way said: "I was to get on a jury I would give them all that was coming to them, and that's a striped suit."

A third said: "That's right; they all deserve to go to the pen, all along the line, and that's where I'd like to put them."

The fourth man was not so talkative, but he expressed the opinion that every man in the city should be swept out and a new lot put in.

Meantime Mrs. Crawford and her companions observed the men closely to impress their faces indelibly on their memories.

When Mrs. Crawford's party reached home from the theater, copious notes of the incident and the conversation were made for future reference and they all agreed to watch boodle juries for the men who had expressed a desire to get on and convict regardless of evidence.

When the Faulkner venire was called one of Mrs. Crawford's party discovered three men in it, two of whom were excused the first day.

The woman who discovered them was too far away to learn their names or even to see their faces. Mrs. Crawford herself and saw the third of the quartette sitting in one of the jury boxes.

It was in the panel of twenty-four from which the Faulkner jury was chosen.

"HE" WAS NOT ACCEPTED.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Crawford was again in court. By this time the jury had been chosen and taking a seat near the front, she carefully scanned the features of every man on the jury.

The man she was looking for was not there and she left the courtroom.

Mrs. Crawford related the facts above stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter at her home last night.

WOULD DENOUNCE HIM.

When asked what course of action she would have pursued had the man in question been on the jury Mrs. Crawford replied:

"I would have the privilege of the court to arrest and have denounced him of even by the conversation I had overheard on the car."

"Now, understand me, I have no sympathy for boodlers, individually or collectively. I do not know Faulkner, nor have I seen him in my knowledge."

"He is not of as much importance to me as my birds there, but if I can help it I will see justice done to an unscrupulous professional or my powers have nothing whatever to do with the case and have no part in it."

"I am acting solely in the interests of the public and have made up my mind that none of that quartet shall act on a boodle jury. I do not know their names, but I do know their faces, and they cannot get away from me."

Mrs. Crawford some years ago achieved distinction by making balloon ascensions and parachute drops.

On one occasion some person cut half way through the half-inch rope which connected the balloon and parachute and Mrs. Crawford fell to earth, uninjured, before she had fairly stepped off, while the balloon, minus the parachute, sailed into space.

The identity of the person who cut the rope has never been discovered by Mrs. Crawford.

Mrs. Crawford is not present at the Faulkner trial today.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., July 25.—Attorney Ewing Cockrell of this city, son of Senator F. M. Cockrell, denied today that his uncle, E. M. Ewing, is lost in Wyoming.

He received a letter yesterday from Mr. Ewing at Alexandria, Va., stating that he had been on a ranch the day before and that he expected to return in a few days. He asked to have some magazines forwarded to him.

Mrs. Ewing has been in the country for some time and has been the cause of much speculation.

RUNAWAY CAR WRECKED TRAIN

Four Persons Known to Be Dead at Trebeins, O.

OTHERS MAY BE IN DEBRIS
FIVE COACHES WERE BURNED BY GAS EXPLOSION.

St. Louis Passenger Was Making Up
Time When Detached Coal Car Dashed Down Grade and Struck It.

TREBEINS, O., July 25.—One of the worst wrecks in the history of the Pennsylvania Railroad occurred here at 10:30 o'clock last night, when the limited St.
Louis and New York express, a heavy train, with engine, two mail cars, day coach and four Pullman sleepers, while running at 70 miles an hour, crashed into a wild flat car loaded with coal, running down grade toward it at a rate of 25 miles an hour.
Three dead bodies have been taken from the wreck.

The engineer's body will never be recovered, being burned to ashes. Several are said to be missing.
The train was totally consumed by fire, with the exception of the two rear Pullmans. Sixteen persons were injured.
Two postal clerks are dead and two others are badly scalded.

Crash Came In Darkness.

The crash came in the darkness. The clouds hid the moon and, to add to the horror, a gas tank under a coach exploded and the entire wreck was a mass of flames in three minutes after the collision with the run away coal car. The dead are:
CHARLES MCGOWAN, Greenfield, Ind., railway postal clerk.
WILLIAM CLARK, Columbus, O., engineer.
WILLIAM DWYER, Columbus, O., fireman.

The injured are:
George A. Gifford, Indianapolis; scalded about face and hands; will recover.
William G. Foraythe, Indianapolis; scalded about face and hands and injured internally.

James McFadden, Indianapolis; badly cut on the head; will recover.
Fred Carter, Indianapolis; stunned and cut about the head; will recover.
Twelve others, whose names could not be secured.

This little town is three miles west of Xenia. There is a heavy down-grade from that city here.

While switching coal cars there last night
a loaded flat car became detached and shot down the heavy grade toward this hamlet.

The limited express on the Pennsylvania Road was speeding on the same track in the opposite direction at the rate of 70 miles an hour.

Passenger Was Making Lost Time.

It was late and Engineer Clark was trying to make up lost time. In the darkness he evidently did not see the coal car coming or saw it too late.

His train crashed into the car and soon the entire mass was a burning pile of wreckage.

In it were nearly fifty human beings.
Passengers escaped without clothing except the seven in the day coach. The survivors stood helpless and heard the screams of two women and one man pinned in the wreckage for whom aid was impossible.

For three hours the wreck burned.
The Xenia and Dayton fire departments went to the rescue. They could save no life.

William Dwyer, the fireman, was taken out alive, but lived only 20 minutes. Four postal clerks were in the car. One, McGowan, was Gifford and Foraythe of Indianapolis, Peters of Columbus, O., and McGowan of Greenfield, Ind.

The bodies of Peters and McGowan were recovered badly scalded and mangled.
It was an hour before help arrived from Xenia. The survivors were taken there and the injured cared for in the city.

Later in the night, a special took the persons uninjured from the car and soon the entire mass was a burning pile of wreckage.

Three wrecking crews arrived and the track is being put in shape. It is to be up for 20 yards. B. B. Hutchinson, claim agent of the road, is preparing a list of the injured as accurately as the confusion will allow. It will be days before the exact sum is known.

Popular Society Girl Saves Her Brother
From a Drunkard's Grave.

There is a safe and easy way of curing the drink habit. A simple little remedy has been used by thousands of men who have severely cured their sufferers of this blighting habit. By putting this remedy in the coffee or tea of the sufferer
the desire for drink is destroyed. Mrs. Isabelle Turner, one of the best known and most popular society women in California, cured her husband of the drink habit after he had been suffering from it for many years.

She says: "I wish every man who is suffering from the drink habit with drink in the family could know of this marvelous remedy."

ICE FUND BENEFIT TODAY AND TONIGHT

This is the weather when you patronize the summer garden—you have to, with the mercury away up and Dr. Hyatt indifferent. For tonight give the matter of choice a moment's thought. You'll be sure to go to Forest Park Highlands if you do, for there is the Post-Dispatch Ice Fund Benefit today and tonight. It costs no more to go there, the attractions are just as good as elsewhere and, best of all, will be helping the helpless, cheering the despairing, and comforting the distressed by the contribution you will make to that most grateful of charities—the Post-Dispatch Ice Fund. There is more relief to a fevered patient in a lump of ice than anything else. Your help to the Ice Fund is a help to humanity.

PAINTING HOUSE HELD AS LABOR

EAST ST. LOUIS JUSTICE HAD TO DECIDE ON IT.

PAINTER SUED FOR WAGES

Defendant Said That He Was Exempt by Schedule, but Court Overruled Him.

Justice Magitz Oehler of East St. Louis was called upon Friday morning to determine whether painting a house is labor. He decided it was. James W. Thomas had sued H. C. Ostrander for $22.00, which he claimed was due him for work done by him for Ostrander, who is a painter boss. The law allows a man in Illinois to avail himself of exceptions to the amount of $100 by scheduling. Attorneys Jones and Treesh, who represented Ostrander, set up the claim that the indebtedness claimed by Thomas was subject to schedule, while Luke Jones, who represented Thomas, stated that it was for labor, and could not be evaded by scheduling. It only took a little while for the evidence to be heard, but the lawyers argued for two hours.
